About Our School

At the Museum Magnet School (MMS), students actively engage in various activities and tours at a variety of museums and cultural institutions throughout the city during the school year. They utilize museums as both primary and secondary sources to augment the core curriculum aligned to the Common Core State Standards. Students are able to discover and foster their passions by being exposed to the visual and performing arts and other cultural riches that contribute to the development of the whole child. Additionally, students collaborate with teams of teachers who provide them with nurturing academic and personal support. Students engage in programming designed to stimulate, provoke and develop their imagination. As they develop and create projects throughout the year, their work is exhibited in a museum-like way during our bi-annual "Dream. Think. Do!" Gallery Tour. In the 2014-2015 school year, MMS will celebrate the opening of our state-of-the art multi-media center, which Manhattan Borough President Gale Brewer made possible through her tireless efforts and financial contributions. We welcome you to join us in our learning journey.
